VENUS—Venus passed in front of the sun June 5, visible on the Mendocino Coast from 3 p.m. to sunset. The last transit was June 8, 2004 and the next pass won't be until December 11, 2117. Venus has a 243 year pattern with a small gap of eight years and large gap of 121.5 years. The sun appears green in this image because the photo was taken through a welding lens to darken the light from the sun.
